Extension FAQs

What are beaded row extensions?

- The beaded row method is a combination of a bead and sew-in system, that creates minimal points of contact with your natural hair.

What are hand tied extensions?

- Hand tied extensions are a type of hair weft we use with the beaded row method. They are the lightest feeling extensions available.

What is the difference from other methods?

- Beaded row extensions allow you to add fullness and length, while still maintaining the integrity of your hair.
- You are able to wear your hair up in a ponytail, bun, or braids without exposing the extensions.
- There is no glue or tape involved and the removal process is easy and takes just a few minutes.
